

PABLO'S EYE DARK MATTER

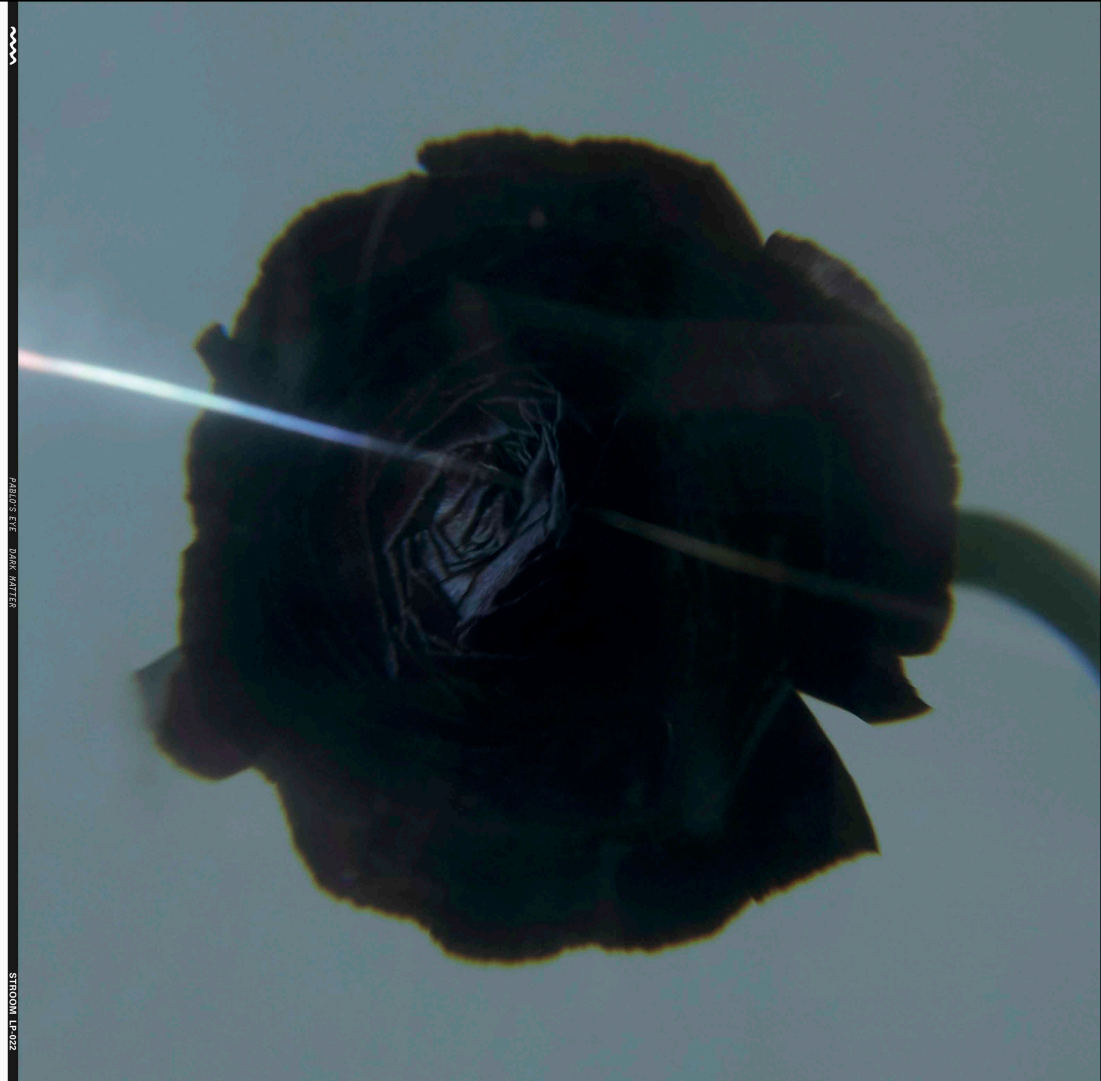

"There is no sound of silence. Usually, it would be true to say there is no such thing as silence, no matter where you are, you will always hear the sound of your heartbeat & the blood rushing through your veins. I was a sound pioneer, as the alchemist mixed material & chemicals in the hope of creating new substances, so I mixed sounds and silence in the hope of creating new sites for infinite meditation. New forms. Instead of marshalling sounds into an arrangement that required attention, I began to think about the sounds themselves. I began to think of the future."
 From 'The Velvet Gentleman' by Richard Skinner, Faber & Faber 2014. Printed with permission of the author.
